PAIR 'FIGHT CITY HALL' WITH CAR, POLICE SAY

MONTREAL (CP) — Two men were charged today with smashing their car into the City Hall building at nearby Ville d'Auteuil as a protest against a tax rate they felt was too high.

Michael Drysdale, 32, and Leopold Danie, 31, pleaded not guilty and were granted $950 bail each.

'WE'RE ALL OKAY', LEADER SHOUTS

Supply Pipe Reaches Trapped Coal Miners

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — Rescue workers lowered soup, medical supplies, head lamps and a requested cigar today to three coal miners trapped since Tuesday near the bottom of a 400-foot shaft.

"We're all okay," shouted David Fellin, 58, one of the trio, after a six-inch drill reached the gangway where the men fled after the main shaft walls collapsed. Also in the mine were Henry Throne, 28, and Louis Bova, 52.

Contact was made just before midnight Sunday after they virtually had been given up for dead.

The next step is to bore a 28-inch hole to bring the men out.

Ralph Ditzler, district mine inspector, said it would take two or three days. It took 22 hours to drill the six-inch shaft.

Ditzler said he wanted to start the rescue digging, but had to hold up because the trapped men were too tired to direct the operation.

"I tried to get Fellin to tell us where to dig, advising him we could work while they slept. But he said: 'No, no, we've got to get some sleep, then you can start,'" said Ditzler.

BOVA SEPARATED

Fellin told Ditzler that he and Throne later were going to try and dig out Bova, who was separated from them about 25 yards by debris. Bova was hurt slightly, he said.

Fellin talked with his wife, Anna, and son, Joe.

After the first contact, a microphone was lowered.

"Dave, Dave," she shouted, "how are you?"

"Okay," he replied.

"Are you sure? Can you hear me? Are you sick or hurt?"

"I can hear you hollering all over... no I'm not sick or hurt."

The mine, of which Eellin is a co-owner, is in Shepperton, an adjoining Schuylkill County about nine miles from Hazleton and some 80 miles northeast of Philadelphia.

DRILLED 331 FEET

After the six-inch hole broke through, John Brios, a friend of Fellin, shouted into the hole. It was drilled to a depth of 331 feet.

"Who are you?" came the reply from the mine. "We're all okay."

Brios leaped back from the hole and exclaimed: "They are alive! I hear them! They're alive!"

The dramatic contact with the men brought relief to a vigil that had lasted 134 hours and 25 minutes.

Gene Gibbons, co-owner of the coal mine with Fellin, lowered a microphone and an electric light to better pinpoint the men's position. The microphone failed to convey their voices but the men talked through the hole.

"Are you going to be able to reach the light?" asked Gibbons.

"We are blocked in a hole and can't get out," answered Fellin.

It was not immediately certain whether the other two men who were trapped, Henry Throne, 28, of Hazleton, and Louis Bova, 52, of Pattersonville, could talk. Several times Throne was asked to talk but there was no response.

THINK ONE HURT

A garbled message was understood as saying that one was injured, apparently not seriously.

Fellin later worked his way to the light and was heard over the transistor microphone.

Boiler Blast Kills Four Men At B.C. Coast Pulp Mill

Victims Hurled Through Walls

WOODFIBRE, B.C. (CP) — Four boiler-plant engineers died Sunday when a boiler and furnace exploded at a pulp and paper mill here, spraying the men with a caustic, hot chemical known as "black liquor." Five other employees of the mill were burned by the chemical.

The explosion rocked the seven-storey building that encased the boiler and furnace at Rayonier (Canada) Limited's large plant in this near-isolated community 20 miles north of Vancouver.

The nine men were hurled through gaping holes blown in the walls of the building.

One man was found unconscious but still alive lying in a pool of hot black liquor. Another was thrown 40 feet and smashed against a concrete wall.

Boots and clothing were scattered around the building amidst debris from the explosion and pools of black liquor.

WILL CLOSE PLANT

Cause of the explosion was not known. Officials said the plant, employing 350 men, would be closed indefinitely.

The dead were identified as Harcharn Kler, 34; Barry McKay, 34; Lawrence St. Laurent and Jurgens Albert Muller, all of this area. Injured were William James, 19; Tony Zwierko, 41; James Fortier; Allen Dewey, 19, and John Hunter.

James, Zwierko and Fortier are in critical condition in hospital with severe burns and other injuries. Dewey is in fair condition and Humber in good condition.

Carl Malm, assistant plant chemist, said the men were covered with black liquor, a mixture of sodium hydroxide and sodium sulphide. He described this as a highly caustic fluid which is recovered in the boiler that exploded. It is a sticky, tar-like substance that burns flesh and hair on touch.

SKIN PEELED

"I tended some of the men," said Malm. "We cut their clothes off and their skin peeled like a grape."

Among the dead was his brother-in-law, St. Laurent.

"I saw Larry lying on the ground outside the building. I knew he was dead and I went to help the others."

W. W. Breitenbach, president of the company, said the plant had an excellent safety program "but sometimes these things just happen."

Kler and McKay were called into the building shortly before the explosion because the steam pressure had dropped from the normal 560 pounds a square inch to about 460 pounds.

400 Chinese Gunned Down

HONG KONG (AP) — More than 400 Chinese were machine-gunned to death by Communist troops recently in Chao Yang, Kwangtung province, press reports said here today.

The reports, quoting recent arrivals from the South China province, said 3,000 members of the Peace Farm Labor Camp took part in the riot led by Communist cadres.

About 1,000 laborers fled to the hills after the incident, the reports said.

The reports said the riot started when Communist authorities attempted to collect large quantities of agricultural products produced by camp prisoners.

FEARS PRECEDENT

Goldwater later said in a Senate speech that the treaty, by failing to provide for on-site inspections, may be setting a pattern for future international agreements without such safeguards.

He said there was no protection in tests inside China.

"Talk of splits between the Chinese and the Soviets are no more meaningful in this respect than talk of splits between ourselves and the French," he said. "We still know whose friends are whose and what the possibilities for violation actually are."

'BIG FANNY' ... another march

GEN. CURTIS LEMAY

LeMay Against Test Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay testified today that if the limited nuclear test-ban treaty were still in the proposal stage "I think I would recommend against it."

LeMay, U.S. Air Force chief of staff, had joined the heads of the army, navy and marines in recommending Senate ratification of the pact but he differed with them on whether he would support the agreement if it had not already been signed by the United States, Russia and Britain.

Senator Strom Thurmond Dem. S.C., asked LeMay at Senate hearings whether, if he had considered the provisions of the treaty before it was signed, he would have recommended its approval.

LeMay said he would have to qualify his answer by saying he would have to spend some time on the question before being sure, but he testified: "I think if it were in a proposal stage—I think I would recommend against it."

Senator Barry Goldwater, Rep. Ariz., a treaty critic, asked LeMay then if he thought the terms of the treaty would stop the spread of nuclear weapons to other countries.

LeMay reported that "I don't think it would stop the Red Chinese" or the French from going ahead, although it might stop some countries not now experimenting in the field.

STRIKE HITS '10 DOWNING'

LONDON (Reuters) — A series of strategic week-long strikes today hit some 500 key British construction sites, including Prime Minister Macmillan's London residence at 10 Downing Street.

A National Federation of Building Trades spokesman said the stoppage at Downing Street was "total." Rebuilding began three years ago. But it has been plagued by labor troubles, security problems and changes of mind by the occupants, including Prime Minister Macmillan.

PRISON FAST

Force-Feeding For 23 Douks

VANCOUVER (CP) — A doctor's report that 23 fasting Sons of Freedom Doukhobors are in "dangerously weak" condition has prompted officials at Mountain Prison in Agassiz, 60 miles east of here, to order force-feeding.

The 23 are among 118 members of the sect who have refused prison food for the last 28 days. The Doukhobors have said they will fast until death to protest their imprisonment for acts of terrorism and conspiracy.

Warden Tom Hall said Sunday nine ounces of a nutritive liquid will be forced down their throats daily if the 23 maintain their refusal to eat. He made the disclosure following a Doukhobor meeting in downtown Victoria Square, the haunt of about 550 sect members who marched here Jan. 17 after burning their homes in the Kootenay.

The Doukhobors said Mr. Hall and Allen Macleod, federal commissioner of penitentiaries, attended the meeting to gain first hand information on a proposed Doukhobor march Tuesday from here to Agassiz.

Spokesman Florence (Big Fanny) Storoff said the Doukhobors will ask Mayor Bill Rathie to clear city streets for the sect's exodus. She said old people and children will be driven to Agassiz, but all able-bodied men and women will walk.

There was no indication what the marchers intend to do if they reach the prison site.

Last year an attempt to "join" their brothers and sisters in Agassiz failed when federal authorities erected barbed wire entanglements at the prison approaches and the municipality passed emergency legislation barring their entry into the district.

The Doukhobors here have been living in cheap waterfront hotels or in east-end homes. They have been making rental payments with social assistance cheques.

Five Killed In Head-On Canyon Crash

YALE, B.C. (CP) — Five persons were killed Sunday and two injured when two cars met head-on along the Trans-Canada Highway in the Fraser Canyon, 115 miles east of Vancouver.

Three died immediately; the fourth en route to hospital, and the fifth in hospital.

RCMP identified the dead as Mrs. Mandy Munroe, 41; Lloyd Elmer Williams, 26; Kenneth Sam, 18, and Lawrence Francis Bolin, all of Lytton, B.C., and Mrs. Katherine Maude Allan, 58, of Vancouver.

Mrs. Allan's husband was taken to hospital in Hope, B.C., suffering extreme shock. Also injured was Larry Phillips, 28, an occupant of the Lytton car. The Lytton car burst into flames but the fire was extinguished by a bus driver with a fire extinguisher.

At the same time he appealed to English-speaking Canadians to be "more conscious of the aspirations of French Canada."

"The day when we will be no more in a position to talk of Canadian unity in this country, Canada would have ceased to exist and then our two cultures

Cloudburst Killer

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A cloudburst precipitated a flood in the lower valley area of El Paso Sunday night, killing one man, flooding dozens of homes and causing damage estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Lawyer Bob Wilson was swept from his car by the raging waters and was drowned. Officers also reported an 11-year-old boy is missing.

62 Dead, 67 Missing

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — A police checklist today showed that 62 persons were known dead and 67 missing in the sinking of the Okinawa ferry boat Midori Maru off Naha Saturday. An air and sea search by U.S. helicopters and surface craft and Okinawan vessels continued.

SAIGON, South Vietnam (Reuters) — Communist forces coming from the direction of Laos today launched new heavy attacks on South Vietnamese frontier outposts they assaulted during the weekend.

'From Canadian Frying Pan Into United States Fire'

MURRAY BAY, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson has advised Quebec residents that they would soon be overwhelmed by an "invasion" of American culture and capital if they broke away from Canada.

In his most direct reply to date to Quebec's separatist leaders, he argued Saturday that French-Canadians can develop their political and economic influence only within a true partnership in Confederation.

At the same time he appealed to English-speaking Canadians to be "more conscious of the aspirations of French Canada."

"The day when we will be no more in a position to talk of Canadian unity in this country, Canada would have ceased to exist and then our two cultures

FACE SAME PROBLEM

The prime minister said the two main ethnic groups face the same problem in varying degrees: Struggling to keep their identities in the face of a steady encroachment from the United States—"all the stronger because it is friendly and in many ways has had good results for us."

He suggested that an independent Quebec could not resist for long the "pressures" from the friendly giant to the south.

FOOD FOR TRAPPED MINERS was lowered through six-inch well casing. Three men, 331 feet below surface, were cut off by fall of coal.

REAL MONEY MONOPOLY GAME

15 Sets of 'Prints' Train Robbery Clue

BAGS FOUND IN IRELAND

DUBLIN (UPI) — Irish police said today they have found four empty money bags, apparently connected with the $7.5 million robbery of a Royal Mail train.

The bags, bearing the stamp of a London bank, were discovered in Dublin in the trunk of a car. The car was rented at Dublin airport Aug. 9 — the day after a gang of bandits hijacked the train north of London and escaped with 120 sacks of registered mail containing 2½ tons of currency.

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard's experts today studied 15 sets of fingerprints found at the farm hideout used by the great train robbery gang 10 days ago. They hoped the prints would identify more of the men who got away with £2,600,000 ($7,800,000).

The prints were found in the buildings at isolated Leatherhead Farm, Oakley, the gang's hideout 18 miles from where the Glasgow-London mail train was held up. Police hoped they would match up with prints on file in the yard's central criminal records office.

In the 11 days since the gang—estimated at about 20 men—stopped the mail train, three men and two women have been arrested and one-tenth of the total loot has been recovered.

Other possible clues included:

1. A monopoly set, a card game usually played with stage money but believed used by gang members played with their banknote loot while they waited in their hideout to make their getaway.
2. A house in a respectable district of West London where detectives were told, a group of 12 men began holding night meetings behind darkened windows last March.
3. Five men sought for questioning, because they have been

AFRICAN SPEAKS OUT FOR 'HONEST POLYGAMY'

TORONTO (CP) — An African bishop today questioned the Christian condemnation of polygamy.

Rt. Rev. S. O. Oduola of Ibadan, West Africa, mentioned the recent Profumo scandal and the high divorce rate in Western countries to about 2,000 delegates at the Anglican congress.

Then he said, of missionaries: "When these people have been telling us 'one man, one woman,' or what you call monogamy... well, you are not all that good."

"We have honest polygamy."

In the case of our teachers we have progressive polygamy," Bishop Oduola said the African practice of having three or even more wives is a lot more honest than the Western practice of "taking one wife, divorcing her, taking another and so on."

Bishop Oduola's remarks took other delegates somewhat aback.

Rt. Rev. A. M. Stockwood, bishop of Southwark, England, replied:

"I do feel however that I don't see how you can have anything in the nature of a Christian home... I can't see how Our Lord would look upon polygamy as being at all proper."

Bishop Stockwood added that he disapproved of the practice of some evangelists who went into Africa and told converts they must stuff off all their wives but one.

"I can well see the necessity of achieving this in certain areas by stages and not all at once."

Rt. Rev. R. S. Emrich of Detroit, Bishop of Michigan, said he feared Africans looked too much on the West as a place of absolute Christian purity.

"I can see the West African bishop is hurt by the attitude of some missionaries from the West," he said. "Perhaps some of his hurt comes from a failure to appreciate the depth and terrorableness of the sin of the world."

Later in a press conference, Bishop Emrich said: "In the long run the only sexual relationship that gives real dignity to women is monogamy. People who attack monogamy are really attacking the stature of women."

All them Sons o' Freedom on welfare are settin' out from Vancouver, but I bet they won't go near Courtenay.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

If the government ferry people think that additional ferry runs have got the residents of the Gulf Islands satisfied, let them think again.

There are now so many schedules, new schedules, and supplementary schedules that no one—not even the ferry terminal workers—are really sure which ferries are running and which have been cancelled or rerouted.

And adding to their displeasure is the lack of eating facilities on the ferries.

They're there all right, but they're not open after 5 p.m.—and the ferries run until 11:30 p.m.

Snug in a little Galiano Island retreat is the man who for several weeks was the only member of the University of Victoria's Senate.

Dean Halliwell, librarian at the university, was the only man specifically named in the Universities Act as a senate member.

It was suggested that he should hold a quick meeting with himself and vote the librarian a raise.

"Can't be done," he said sadly.

"Now if only they'd made me the only member of the board of governors..."

Saturday we invited the driver of a certain black half-ton sedan which screeches around Bay-Scott intersection, to come in and we'd write his obituary while he was here to keep the facts straight.

Well, today he came in. He admitted to cutting a corner or two too sharply. But he said the gearing on his rear wheels is such that tire-screaming can't be avoided.

We parted on good terms, he agreeing that a newspaper campaign to reduce road perils from hurry-up drivers, is always necessary. We got the impression we won't need that "obit" for a long, long time.

Proper use of the comma is often vital in writing a message, said Rev. Dr. F. E. H. James in a talk to young people.

He told of the parson who wrote in his parish magazine: "Our harvest thanksgiving will be sent to the hospitals for the benefit of all who are sick after the service."

Twenty-seven seagulls stood in a solemn row behind the huge crowd massed on the lawns in front of Canada's National Youth Orchestra in Butchart Gardens last Wednesday night.

As stiff sentries, they lined the roof of a small building directly facing the bright-lit stage and their silence was in contrast to the storm of applause which greeted each orchestral selection.

Among the estimated 3,500 who came to the concert were hundreds of visitors from the United States.

"A really wonderful performance," said Mrs. Howard F. Gregory from Seaside, Oregon, "and all those fine young people up there—they are a credit to Canada."

The hordes of cars which brought concert-goers to the gardens were masterfully handled. Special priority was given to cars carrying handicapped persons. They were directed through a reserved lane to the parking enclosure nearest the entrance.

No. 1 in Sports Now No. 1 Citizen

Doug Fletcher, who has devoted 50 years to boosting sport in Victoria, Sunday was named Victoria's Good Citizen for 1963.

The presentation was made by R. T. Jones, of Ladysmith, Grand Factor of the Native Sons of B.C., on behalf of the Victoria post which sponsors the award.

Mr. Fletcher was given the title as Good Citizen in a ceremony at the Cameron Bandshell in Beacon Hill Park.

He was one of more than 50 people nominated.

Mr. Fletcher was born in England, and came to Victoria at the age of 19, rapidly making a name for himself as a cricketer and soccer player.

Since then he has been active in golf, and in his main pastime —promoting minor sports.

A past president of the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association, he was presented three years ago by the arena commission with a plaque for his participation in the trailing of young people.

At present, he is working in minor lacrosse.

29 TITLES

In the last 10 years, his minor teams have won 29 provincial championships.

He is life member in three organizations—the B.C. Lacrosse Association, the Minor Hockey Association, and the Uplands Golf Club.

He is also at present president of the Sports Council in Victoria, president of the Athletic Commission, and a member of the Arena Commission.

5. A suitcase and a briefcase found stuffed with £100,000 ($302,700) in a Surrey wood last Friday.

6. A second-hand black sports car, found in a parking lot near London Airport where it had been left by a dapper man and a plump, pockmarked woman who spoke with what police were told was "an unattractive London accent."

The couple bought the car for £835 ($2,505) in cash—all in £5 notes—the day after the robbery. Later that day the auto was left in a parking lot near London Airport. The address the couple gave the car dealer proved to be phoney.

Investigators are confident they now know the identity of a couple who dumped the £100, 900 in two zippered grips in a Surrey wood Friday.

Police asked hikers, picknickers and bird watchers during the weekend to look for evidence of freshly dug areas in the wood, hoping it would lead to loot buried by the gang in an effort to get hot money off its hands.

From London to the Scottish border, the public responded with excessive zeal on a rainy Sunday, lured by the £780,000 in rewards offered for capture of the crooks. But their tips proved valueless.

Police said £242,207 ($726,621) of the money has been recovered.

STRELKA'S GRANDPUPS TO HAVE NEW OWNERS

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—A Missouri boy and an Illinois girl will get two direct-line descendants of the Soviet space dog Strelka from the White House kennel.

The children, Mark Bruce, 9, of Columbia, Mo., and Karen House, 10, of Westchester, Ill., a Chicago suburb, expressed amazement when they learned Sunday that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy had chosen them from among 5,000 applicants for puppies.

Today, the two brown puppies born to Pushinka, daughter of the Soviet dog that orbited the earth, will be on their way to Mark and Karen. Karen is going to get Butterfly, a female pup. Mark will receive Streaker, a male.

Butterfly and Streaker, along with Clackie and White Tips, were born June 14 to Pushinka, a gift to the Kennedys from Soviet Premier Khrushchev. The pups were sired by Charlie, Caroline Kennedy's Welsh terrier. Caroline named all four pups.

Mrs. Kennedy was in hospital recovering from the birth of a premature baby that lived less than two days when she asked to see some of the letters requesting pups.

Ten were selected for her. From these the president's wife chose Karen and Mark to receive the puppies.

On lined paper, in pencil, Mark had written Mrs. Kennedy:

"The other day I heard on the radio that the dog Mr. Krushchev gave to you had pups and you didn't know what to do with them. On June the 8th I was playing baseball. I was batting. Our dog Midget got behind me when I was swinging the bat and I accidentally hit her in the head. She died almost immediately. I am a member of the Parkade 4 H (club). Midget was my project. I was in dog care. If you would let me have one of the pups I could continue in 4 H."

Karen's letter, also in pencil on tablet paper, went to the president.

"I would like to have one of your pretty dog puppies," she wrote. "I would like a puppy so much because I never had a dog before and I like you dog very much. If you give me a puppy I will be so happy."

"P.S. Write me back and answer by letter please Mr. Kennedy. I don't know how to spell the name of the dog that just had the babbies."

He Took a Dare And Ended Up ... You Know Where

Richard W. Small accepted "a bit of a dare" from some friends and it cost him $125 in city magistrate's court Friday.

All Small did was drive his car around the block. But there were no licence plates on it and Small's licence had been suspended a week before for impaired driving.

A police officer saw him, gave chase and lost him. Later he spotted the car at Small's home.

Small, 20, who lived at 941 Balmoral, told investigating officers that his friends "kidded" him because he had a car and was not allowed to drive it.

Magistrate William Ostler warned the accused that if he persisted in disobeying the law he would go to jail next time.

$40 Billion Price Tag For 3-Man Moon Probe

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.

(AP)—When the three-man Apollo spaceship blasts off toward the moon late in this decade, the launching will be the climax to the most expensive peacetime venture ever undertaken by man.

Estimates of the total cost range upwards from $20,000,000,000 with some sources predicting an outlay of $40,000,000,000.

The fat price tag was underscored last week when the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced signing of the largest contract it has ever negotiated. North American Aviation Incorporated received the $934,400,000 plum for initial development and production of the Apollo craft's two major sections, the command and service modules.

The command module will house the three astronauts en route to the moon and during the return trip. The service module will contain propulsion, power and other supporting equipment.

Earlier, the space agency signed a $387,900,000 contract with Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation to develop the third section of the Apollo ship, the lunar excursion module which two of the pilots will ride to the lunar surface while the main body of the ship orbits the moon.

Both contracts cover work until mid-1965.

THOUSANDS INVOLVED

The Apollo effort is so widespread that it cannot be handled by a handful of companies. The space agency estimates that more than 20,000 firms and 300,000 people eventually will be involved in the project. That's about $2,000,000,000 a year in salaries alone.

While North American, Grumman and their subcontractors work on the lunar ferry, hundreds more firms are busy developing the hundreds of thousands of parts, large and small, for the gigantic Saturn V rocket which in two minutes will consume 2,100 tons of fuel to provide the power that will start the astronauts on their way.

More than $1,300,000,000 has been earmarked for Saturn development in this fiscal year. Estimated cost for each launching of the 360-foot vehicles, including booster price, is $100,000,000.

Before the hardware can be flown, it must be thoroughly ground-tested, and launch pads must be built. For fiscal year 1964, the space agency has requested $800,000,000 to construct test facilities in Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Cape Canaveral and other centres.

Monks Still Fasting

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Buddhist monks continued a 48-hour hunger strike in Saigon today and university students boycotted classes in Hue as the Buddhists stepped up their campaign against the government.

Authorities sought to head off further outbreaks, but another young monk was reported determined to burn himself to death as a protest against the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem, a Roman Catholic.

Four monks and one nun have committed fiery suicide to press Buddhist demands for religious equality and government reforms. The government denies Buddhist charges that their religion is being persecuted.

Buddhist delegations shuttled back and forth between Saigon and Hue, 400 miles to the north, to co-ordinate the anti-government movement in the two centres.

$5 MILLION PARCHMENT GRANTED NEGRO STUDENT

... shook white hand

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — The white people stared stiffly ahead, without expression. The few Negroes in the audience watched somberly from small, self-conscious islands.

Except for a few stolen glances, neither group seemed to look at the other. Together, under the tall oaks, they sat in awkward silence and watched what neither had ever seen before.

James Howard Meredith, a slight man of 30, became the first Negro to graduate from the University of Mississippi in its 115-year history. Without incident, he received what some are calling the $5,000,000 diploma, that being the estimated cost of the army troops and U.S. marshals it took to get and keep Meredith at Ole Miss. Meredith received a bachelor's degree in political science.

The scene Sunday bore no resemblance to the night he entered last Sept. 30 in an explosion of violence and death. Few people at the graduation were aware of the remaining 16 marshals standing inconspicuously on the fringes of the crowd.

In a shaded glen, just a short distance from the scene of last year's riot, about 2,500 whites and 40 of Meredith's family and friends looked on quietly as he and 379 other graduates received their diplomas.

A matronly white woman, fanning herself with the commencement program, was overheard whispering to a friend: "Oh, look, he's going to shake his hand!" She said it with apparent dismay and fear. But the hand was shook, by university Chancellor John Davis Williams, and Meredith walked down with his diploma.

'Negro Own Greatest Obstacle'

DETROIT (AP) — Mississippi integrationist Charles Evers led 2,000 other Negroes in a peaceful demonstration Sunday through two industrial suburbs and then scolded his fellow marchers sharply.

"Stop blaming the white man" for racial inequality, Evers told a rally after the march. "It's your fault now."

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People sponsored the demonstration.

Evers said, in the northern United States, "the Negro is his own greatest obstacle. You're so satisfied it's sickening. Stop fighting among yourselves. Get registered and vote."

Evers, brother and successor of slain Mississippi NAACP field secretary Medgar Evers, said he was disgusted "to see Negroes in Chicago selling their votes."

He said the person-to-person relationship between whites and Negroes is "better in Mississippi than it is here. I never lived in a segregated neighborhood."

More Married Women Going Back to Work

The number of married women returning to the labor market is on the increase, National Employment Service figures show.

Many women are leaving secretarial and other schools to compound the difficulty of job placement.

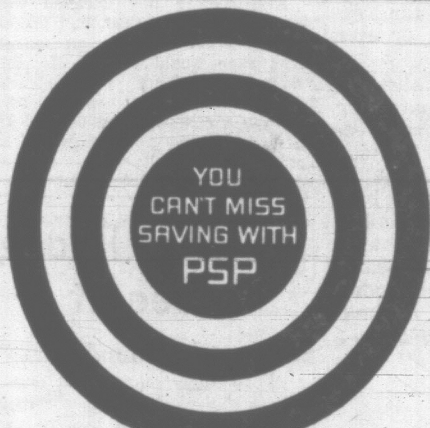

NES manager George Bevis said many women do not come up to requirements of office employers because they either do not have grade 11, 12 or proper training in shorthand, bookkeeping or typewriting.

NES is handling preliminary interviews for prospective employees at the new Woodward's shopping centre due to open in two months, and 500 interviews have been set up to date.

City Store Founder, Dramatist Fred Spencer Dies, Aged 86

Fred Spencer, 86, founder of Spencer's Stores Limited in Victoria, and an enthusiastic supporter of amateur dramatics, died here Saturday.

About 25 years ago, Mr. Spencer won an award as the outstanding actor in British Columbia. He was a leading landscape artist and won many local and provincial awards.

He travelled widely in Europe and used to show films and give lectures on a trip he made to Russia.

Born at Wigan, Lancashire, England, in 1877, Mr. Spencer came to Canada in 1910 and lived at Nanaimo until 1920 when he moved to Victoria.

In 1922 he went into business for himself in the wholesale district on Lower Yates Street.

Mr. Spencer opened a store at 1110 Government Street in 1928, and a branch store at 1420 Douglas Street in 1935, and the Surplus Annex at 1012 Government in 1952.

He changed the name of the firm from General Warehouse to Spencer's in 1954, and the same year acquired the building adjacent to 1420 Douglas.

The business is still operated by the family.

All stores will be closed for the funeral services on Wednesday morning, opening for business at 1 p.m. Services will be held in St. Patrick's Church, Haultain Street, at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Mr. Spencer was predeceased by his wife Mary, and a daughter, Gwen Spencer Hethley, who was a successful rifle shot and participated in the famous Bisle contest.

Surviving are his daughter, Eva Davies; five grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

NOT DISHONORABLE—WANTED TO SEE CHINA

U.S. Turncoat Protests Discharge

NEW YORK (AP) — Lowell D. Skinner, a Korean War turncoat, says he did not deserve a dishonorable discharge from the United States Army for turning his back on his country.

Skinner, 32, returned to the United States this month after nine years in Communist China. He was heard Sunday night in a taped-telecast on a program shared with Allen W. Dulles, former head of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The tapes were made in separate interviews.

Skinner said it was his decision to go to Communist China, rather than return to the U.S. after the war. He was dishonorably discharged in 1954.

Skinner was captured in the summer of 1950. In China, he married a Chinese girl and became a lathe operator.

Dulles blamed U.S. schools for not doing more to teach the meaning of communism to young Americans before they enter military service.

... didn't mean to stay

Skinner, Dulles said, "was unprepared to meet the kind of indoctrination that he received when he was there. I'm not trying to excuse him. There isn't any real excuse, but we're not all strong, we're not all prepared."

Skinner discounted the indoctrination idea. He said that when United Nations negotiators agreed to Korean repatriation, he interpreted this to mean it was legal for him to go to Red China before eventually going home.

Skinner said he was driven to go to China by a desire to know more about its people and to learn the Chinese language. He said he did not mean to stay indefinitely.

He said he was disappointed at being refused entrance to the University of Peking to study Chinese. He said he decided to return home in 1957 but was thwarted by the illness of his English-speaking wife.

Skinner said he still hopes to get his wife, now an invalid, out of Red China.

There were 21 U.S. turncoats in the Korean War.

Mr. Sharp's Blunt Warning

MR. MITCHELL SHARP, minister of trade and commerce, and the second most powerful figure in Canadian politics, evidently has begun a course of higher public education. He is educating Canadians in the local difficulties and the broad national opportunities of a tariff reduction. He is preparing the nation for the fateful decisions to be taken next year in the Kennedy Round of GATT bargaining.

Though largely lost in the rush of more spectacular business, Mr. Sharp's speeches to the recent session of Parliament were of the highest significance. They warned Canada of the shape of things to come.

Thus: "Canada is going to bargain for access to foreign markets, for which we are willing to pay equivalent value... We will pay for what we get."

That is to say, Canada must reduce its own tariffs, to some degree at least, if it is to secure reductions, and larger markets, in foreign countries. Hence, Mr. Sharp adds, Canadian industry must strengthen its competitive capacity and improve its productivity to meet the challenge of large imports.

But Mr. Sharp says the government's policy of tariff reduction "won't pose a threat to efficient Canadian production." That adjective, "efficient," is carefully chosen and highly significant. It can only mean that the government is not prepared to maintain tariff protection for inefficient industries beyond a certain point, at the expense of losing the chance of larger markets for those efficient exporting industries which have made Canada the world's fourth trading nation.

At what point should the government refuse protection for the inefficient, the weak sisters of the economy? That has always been, and is today, the core of the tariff issue and of any government's political problem.

For Mr. Sharp and his colleagues the old, familiar problem is especially difficult because Canadian politics have been turned upside down by recent elections.

The traditionally low-tariff Liberal Party depends mainly for its parliamentary strength on the protectionist belt of Ontario and Quebec and today holds only three seats on the historically free-trade prairies.

The Conservative Party, historically the advocate of protection, has lost most of its seats in central Canada and depends primarily on the western farmer. And finally the New Democratic Party, which began as a movement of western agrarian prospects under the name of the C.C.F., is now terrified by the prospect of tariff cuts.

Mr. Reid Scott, the official New Democratic spokesman on trade, questions Mr. Sharp's policy. "In the world of rationalization that will follow these (GATT) negotiations most, if not all, of secondary industries will disappear," Mr. Scott warns. "These industries have been built up under protective tariff walls and some of them could not survive the lifting of the tariffs and live in the cold winds of international competition."

No doubt that is true of some marginal industries if the Kennedy Round actually produces a general downward revision of free world tariffs. No doubt Mr. Sharp understands these difficulties better than any other Canadian politician since he spent most of his life as an expert tariff negotiator. Mr. Sharp also knows, however, that Canada cannot hope to solve any basic problem without a large expansion of its exports and they will require a general tariff overhaul.

The great danger at the moment is not that any Canadian government will go too far in revising the tariff but that it will not have the chance to go anywhere. For it is by no means certain yet that the Kennedy Round can succeed, or even that it can begin.

Already the United States and the Common Market are quarrelling about Europe's protectionism—as symbolized by the virtual prohibition on imported American poultry—and American retaliation has been plainly threatened. This is a chilling overture to next year's trade negotiations. Their failure probably would gratify some Canadian industries but for the nation as a whole, as the world generally, it would be a catastrophe.

Unemployment: B.C. Rate Higher

A DECLINE OF 11,000 IN THE numbers of Canadian unemployed between mid-June and mid-July, reported last week by the federal labor department and the bureau of statistics, was mainly significant because it took place despite a large increase in the total manpower force of the country.

The total number of employed rose by about 207,000 to 6,742,000 persons which was a new record high and meant that 95.8 per cent of the Canadian labor force was at work. This compares with 95.5 per cent a year earlier and 94.8 per cent two years ago.

The heavy increase in the total manpower force—resulting from the traditional rush of students for summer jobs—is a notable factor in what otherwise seems to be a satisfactory improvement in the unemployment picture.

In the two months from mid-May to mid-July approximately 312,000 young people between the ages of 14 and 19 entered the labor market.

This is 44,000 more than last year and 98,000 more than two years ago. The increase dramatically illustrates the urgent need for more permanent jobs for these young people as year-by-year they join the permanent labor force.

Disturbing for people in this province is the fact that B.C.'s unemployment rate was higher at 5.5 per cent this July than the 5.1 per cent of one year ago. It was also well over the national average of 4.2 per cent.

This may be explained in part by an unusually high number of young people seeking summer work as well as by an influx of workers from other parts of the country who have been drawn by all the publicity given by the provincial government to the "unparalleled prosperity" of B.C. Nevertheless it is a warning that as the peak-employment period draws to a close and the inevitable winter lay-offs occur in many industries, unemployment could again this year be a serious problem for B.C.

Britain Takes a Hard, Uneasy Look at Police, Courts and Government

By Richard Purser, from London

THE good name of British justice is the latest of many to be dragged in the mud by the Ward case. Circumstances of other cases, some related and some unrelated to the Ward case, have coincided to raise strong questions about the police, the courts, and the government and the links between them.

Labor MP Dingle Foot, who is in close touch with the issues involved, has put a number of questions following the death of Dr. Stephen Ward. It was Mr. Foot who figured so prominently in the furore over deportation of Nigerian Chief Anthony Enahoro to face treason charges in his homeland. An obviously unhappy House of Commons earlier this year agreed to the deportation under strong government pressure only after receiving ministerial assurance that Chief Enahoro could be defended in Nigeria by any counsel he chose. It turned out—after the deportation—that Mr. Foot, Chief Enahoro's leading counsel, was an exception to this assurance and would not be allowed into Nigeria. This misleading of the House by the government in such a sensational and deeply-felt case paved the way for the present atmosphere.

If the House were sitting at present, heated debates on the administration of justice would be taking place. As it is, the debate is forced onto public platforms and into the pages of the press, where House privilege does not prevail.

Mr. Foot has asked first about the case of John Edgcombe, the West Indian lover of Christine Keeler, charged with shooting at her last Dec. 14 with intent to kill or inflict grievous bodily harm.

Miss Keeler, obviously an essential witness, disappeared before the trial. It was her disappearance that caused rumors to circulate about the possible interest of people in high places in seeing that Miss Keeler did not testify in court.

Not Shanghaied

It was suggested that Mr. Profumo may have connived at Miss Keeler's convenient absence from the country. It has since been universally accepted that Mr. Profumo's errors did not extend to anything of this sort, and that Miss Keeler went to Spain on her own initiative under mental stress at the prospect of the trial.

This explanation does not answer the legal question raised by Mr. Foot: why was the court not asked for an adjournment when the key witness failed to appear? Instead the graver charges were simply abandoned and Edgcombe was convicted only of possession of a firearm, for which he got a startling seven years. (Strong efforts are being made, on the instigation of unknown persons, to appeal his case.)

The case of "Lucky" Gordon, another West Indian lover of Miss Keeler's, is attracting the greatest comment at present. He was convicted of assaulting her, and sentenced to three years. His case was appealed, and his conviction quashed on the grounds of evidence presented to the judge which, he said, might have raised reasonable doubt in the minds of the jury if it had been presented at the trial. This evidence included statements taken by police from a number of persons, and material contained in a lengthy personal tape recording made by Miss Keeler. But not one word of this was revealed, and the public hasn't the vaguest idea why Gordon was suddenly freed. This abrupt and unexplained judicial action caused such disquiet that the attorney-general—who strung the House a false line on the Enahoro case—had to formally deny any pressure by the Director of Public Prosecutions on the Lord Chief Justice to keep the truth buried.

This issue is not being allowed to die easily. Mr. Patrick Gordon-Walker, one of the top four Labor front-benchers, has joined the chorus of demands that evidence upon which a court acts should be given publicly and tested by examination and cross-examination.

Miss Keeler's lawyers said there was no procedure by which she, whose truthfulness was evidently questioned by the new evidence, could be represented by counsel, cross-examine witnesses, or call new evidence in rebuttal before the appeal court. Therefore it would have been a gross injustice to reveal the information available to the court.

If this is the law, said Mr. Gordon-Walker, "the law should be changed." Disquiet is not confined to Labor MPs and journalists who have everything to gain from inquiries embarrassing to the government. Disturbed talk is heard in the gathering-places of lawyers, and many Conservatives are patently unhappy about the situation.

Mr. Foot, with his ace lawyer's mind, went beyond the currently popular topic of the peculiarities of Gordon's appeal. He pointed out portions of the transcript of Gordon's original trial which showed that Gordon may have been kept at a police station for 14 hours while being questioned about matters in respect of which he was never charged. "Was he told that he was free to leave or that he was not bound to answer such questions? As long ago as 1929 a Royal Commission on Police Powers and Procedure condemned the practice of detention for questioning."

Missing Witnesses

Also frequently remarked upon has been the inability of the police to find two witnesses who Gordon asked to be called on his behalf, although one of them was on remand at the time. Statements have more recently been taken from both men, and figured in the appeal.

Finally, among the fringe cases surrounding the Ward case, is that of Marilyn Rice-Davies. She was prevented from flying to Spain on June 16 when police intercepted her at London Airport.

The law, says Mr. Foot, states that no citizen can be prevented from leaving the country unless he is charged with an offence.

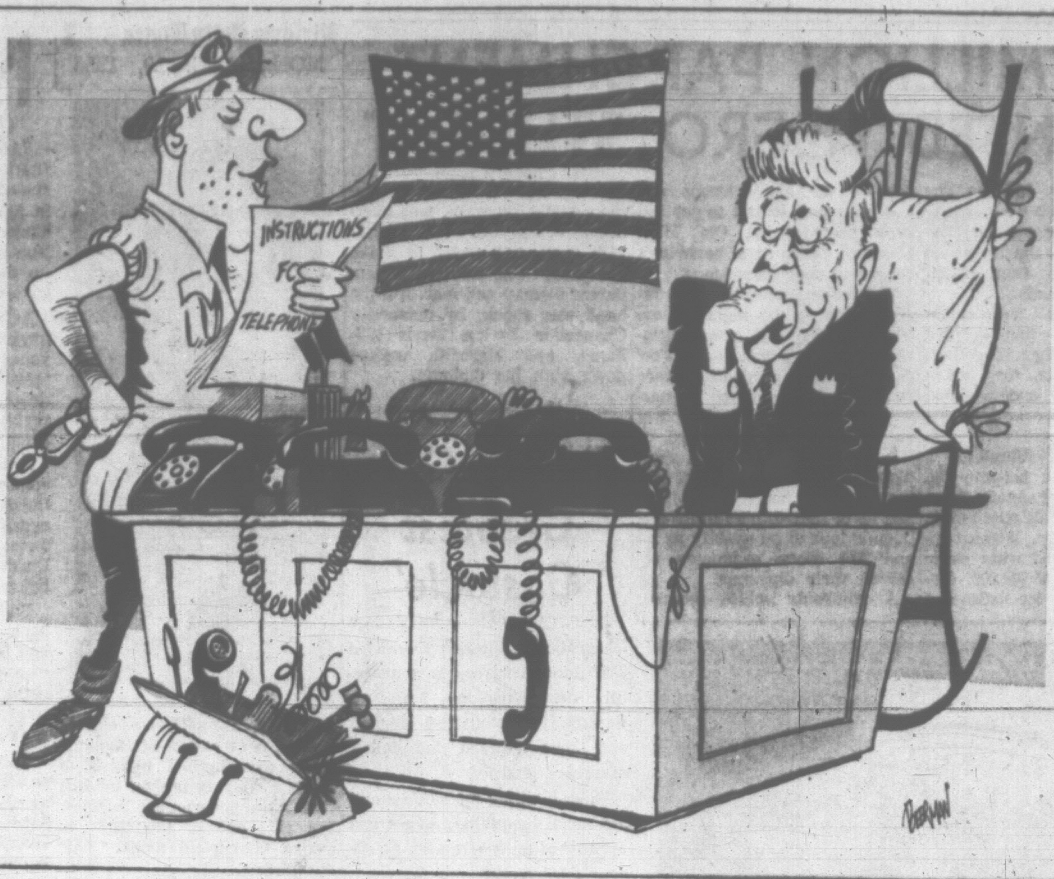

The next day the attorney-general, Sir John Hobson, said in answer to a Parliamentary question that she was detained on a charge. But three days later Home Secretary Henry Brooke—the minister under heaviest fire for suspected miscarriages of justice over the past year—said that Sir John had made a misstatement because the question came at short notice. Miss Rice-Davies was not on a charge, but "the police were pursuing inquiries about her activities which might eventually justify bringing charges against her."

Mr. Foot, as an MP, tried to find out how many people had been prevented by the police from leaving the country in each of the past 11 years; who had been prevented from leaving the country this year, although not charged with any offence; and how many persons had been bailed under the appropriate section of the 1952 act although not charged with any offence, in each of the past 11 years. In each case he received from Mr. Brooke the reply "this information is not available." The replies were "manifestly absurd," said Mr. Foot. The replies were not obtained because the government thought the answers must be concealed. But Britons must be told how far police powers are being stretched.

Test Ban Pact and World Policy

By MAX FREEDMAN

SENATOR HICKENLOOPER, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee and senior Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, has asked a question about the test ban treaty which deserves a better answer than it has yet received.

Freedman

He wants to know whether it would not have been much wiser to break the back of Russia by continuing the arms race instead of giving her a rest from this competition. He asked: "Who gets what out of this treaty? The Russians, don't they get relieved here from those further tremendous expenditures and charges on their economy, while we abandon that particular advantage even though it is tremendously expensive in this cold war?" No more probing question can be asked.

Even before this question was put, Secretary of State Rusk had presented a grim forecast of what an unrestricted arms race would mean. He spoke of "mounting defense budgets that go beyond anything now contemplated." In reply to the senator he warned that no one would enjoy this particular kind of competition with Russia—a point with which Senator Hickenlooper at once agreed. Then Mr. Rusk pointed to the many needs of the American people which could be met more easily if the huge defense budget did not have to be continued indefinitely.

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara made the curious but emphatic point that the test ban treaty will have no effect at all on American defense outlays. Apparently we are going to have big budgets regardless of what the Soviet Union does with its own arms program in the visible future. So Senator Hickenlooper need have no fear that Russia will cease to face a massively armed America steadily adding to its nuclear strength.

Mr. McNamara made the further military argument that "While it is true that the Soviet Union by underground tests could overcome what we believe to be their deficiencies in tactical nuclear weapons, they will do so more slowly, and at higher cost, than they could were there to be no treaty."

Rusk Defence

On balance Mr. Rusk made a wiser, though less spectacular, defence of the treaty than did Mr. McNamara. The secretary of state was content to argue that the treaty, with all its risks, deserves a fair chance because it has advantages for both sides. The secretary of defense seemed to be telling us that there are very few risks in the new arrangement because America is so much stronger than Russia. In the rough disappointments of world affairs it will not be altogether surprising if Mr. Rusk's caution wears better than Mr. McNamara's cockiness.

But Senator Hickenlooper's question still stays for answer. There can be no doubt that millions of Americans would be ready for any financial burden if by an intensified arms race we could spend Russia into surrender. Is this a feasible policy that has a chance of success or is it a mere illusion?

The trouble with Senator Hickenlooper's question is that it is concerned with the immediate balance sheet of military power instead of with the larger agenda of world policy. What kind of world are we likely to have if we reject this treaty and then go in for an unlimited arms race?

No Meek Surrender

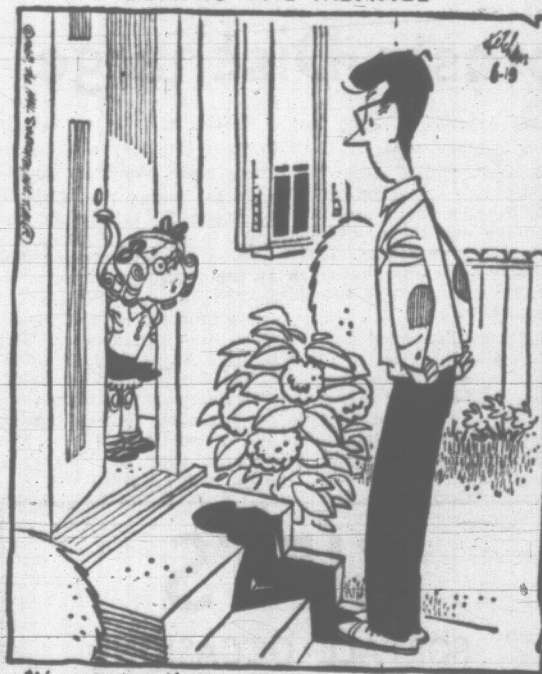

A great power like Russia will not meekly submit to surrender or to a position of ruinous inferiority in military strength. Such an intensified competition in the development of nuclear weapons would be a warning to Russia that we are not even remotely interested in improved relations. Instead of a truce, we ourselves would sound the alarm for new tensions and greater danger.

Confronted with such an American challenge, the Russian response is easily predictable. Russia would try to break out of the net by causing as much trouble as she could not only in Europe but elsewhere. Then the cry would go up here to use America's superior strength to crush Russia for all time. This would mean that America would strike the first fatal blow, or more probably, would bluster and then do nothing.

Either way an accelerated arms race points to a more dangerous world than the one which may conceivably result from the impetus of the treaty ban. At least the treaty offers a measure of hope where a brutal arms race guarantees new trouble. It is a safe prediction that in the end Senator Hickenlooper and most of his Republican colleagues will ratify the hope by voting for the treaty.

Whose Eskimos?

By MAURICE WESTERN

ON the day before the adjournment of Parliament Mr. Guy Favreau, who is emerging as one of the strong ministers of the Pearson government, made an important statement on the subject of federal responsibility for the Eskimo people of north-west Quebec. This matter is frequently cited as a grievance by some nationally minded French Canadians.

Western

Mr. Favreau's comments were so vigorous that they attracted immediate attention.

The background of this continuing discussion is interesting. Until 1935 neither Ottawa nor Quebec City worried very much about the Eskimos of Ungava. But in that depression year the Quebec government which, like all other governments, was in financial straits, announced that it would accept no responsibility for relief costs in the northern area. Its case was that the Eskimos were Indians and that the federal government, under section 91 of the British North American Act, bore responsibility for Indian affairs. In 1939 the Supreme Court of Canada ruled that Quebec was right and that, in a legal sense, the Eskimos were indeed Indians.

When the federal government became the guardian of these people, it found that the situation in northern Quebec was somewhat unusual. The Eskimos had long been isolated from the French-speaking white people of the southern part of the province. Their contacts had been with the Hudson's Bay traders, English-speaking missionaries and entrepreneurs. Their cultural links were with people across northern Canada. Their second language was English and they were overwhelmingly (at least 90 per cent) Protestant.

Although the responsibility for Indians has been shifted to the department of citizenship and immigration, the Eskimos of Ungava are still under the department of northern affairs. That department recognizes an obligation towards these people in three fields: education, welfare and economic development.

From Stone Age

The fundamental problem is that of lifting a people from the Stone Age to the 20th century. To this end, the federal government has introduced numerous programs intended to equip the Eskimo people for life in a modern economy. Much has been accomplished by fostering the native arts; the famous Eskimo stone carvings now bring a larger revenue than the fur trade. There is also an excellent market for Eskimo paintings. In addition, the department has now organized 18 co-operatives to handle such products of the region as char, whales and timber.

Proposals for transferring exclusive jurisdiction over these people to a Quebec department are regarded without enthusiasm in Ottawa. It is not conceded that matter for serious controversy exists since, in the first place, federal jurisdiction has been established by the highest court and, in the second, no one challenges Quebec's right, under section 92 of the BNA act, to establish her own services in the area. There is an overlapping of responsibilities in this case and it would seem that much could be gained by co-operative efforts.

A Quebec spokesman has, on one hand been critical of federal administration and has argued, properly enough, that government should seek among the Eskimo people "the future builders and administrators of new Quebec's economic life." But on the other, he proposes to make them over culturally. The second language, he insists, must be French because that is the language of Quebec.

Third Culture

This is really an argument for forcing a third culture upon a people who are already more bicultural than most of us and this at a time when they are facing extremely difficult problems of transition. Moreover, it would divide them unnecessarily from their own kinkfolk.

On the main point, Mr. Favreau was very clear. Before he and his colleague would recommend to the government "to abdicate its responsibilities in matters concerning the Eskimos 23 years after the decision made by the supreme court and during which period we assumed responsibility in the matter, we must be entirely satisfied that it would be in the interest of the Eskimos and that all facilities would be made available to them."

This differs in no way from the attitude of the previous government which was harassed on this subject by some of the same Conservative nationalists who are prodding the federal Liberal government today.

Everyone agrees that it is the welfare of the Eskimos that matters. Mr. T. C. Douglas suggested that it might be no bad idea to ask the Eskimos which jurisdiction they would prefer. It would certainly appear unreasonable to ignore the opinions of these who, according to Mr. Gourdeau, are to be the "builders and administrators of new Quebec's economic life."

Avoiding Hay Fever, Asthma

Whenever a beam of sunlight comes through my darkened room and I see the millions of dust particles in the air, I am much impressed. Ever since my boyhood, when I worked in a public library, my nose has been highly sensitive to book dust. All I have to do to get to sneezing violently is to pick up a book, or some typewritten material that has much dust on it. A high percentage of people, when skin-tested, are found to be sensitive to house dust. Even a house that has been well cleaned and dusted and vacuumed contains much dust.

Alvarez

A person who is highly sensitive to house dust can get much relief by installing in his home a central air conditioning unit with a precipitator attachment. These precipitators interest me particularly because long ago, the basic idea for such apparatus came to my friend, Professor Cottrell, of the University of California. By running high tension electricity through an air conduit, he showed that one can cause the tiny particles of dust to run together into bigger particles that are heavy enough to fall out.

Another friend of mine, Dr. van Leeuwen, of Holland, many years ago discovered that if he sent his patients with asthma into a hospital, half of them immediately got relief. Also, if he sent them up into the mountains of Switzerland, half of them got relief. Studies soon showed that this relief came because, in a hospital room, where there are no rugs and few draperies, there is much less dust than there is in a home. Also, in the mountains the air is clean, and free from pollens.

An asthmatic person ought to get out of his home while it is being dusted. It helps to have the dusting done with a damp cloth. Some persons can get help by wearing a respirator that filters out much dust.

Very bad is the dust that gathers on the surface of a bed. A mother, on coming into her child's room some winter evening, may decide that he needs an extra blanket. When she throws this over the bed-whoosh! and so much dust flies up into the poor child's face that he or she may start wheezing in an attack of asthma. It would be much better if, during the day, the mother were to cover the bed with a plastic, and at bedtime, very gently remove it.

Some years ago on going into the Pullman car I saw the woman across the aisle covering her pillows with plastic covers. She said she was an asthmatic who could avoid an attack by covering pillows which might be full of feathers or some other (to her) irritating material.

The asthmatic person should keep a record of her reactions to the various types of materials that she uses for sheets, spreads, and blankets. Cotton materials are usually safe, except for the stuffing of pillows. There may be some cotton-seed-which can produce asthma. Rubber foam is safer. Feathers and Kapok can cause wheezing.

Neighbors who suffer from hay fever might join together and pay someone to cut down all of the ragweed that grows in vacant lots in their neighborhood. Experts say that ordinarily when the wind is not strong, the ragweed pollen does not travel very far.

Today, many people with asthma get much help from a little instrument with which they can inject a few droplets of a strong relaxing drug into the back of the throat. One of the best of these drugs is Adrenalin.

Many people try to avoid hay fever or asthma by moving to another part of the country. This sometimes helps wonderfully, but sometimes it doesn't. Often an expert allergist can tell the person where he is likely to get relief. I remember a young woman with a severe hay fever who, to get away from ragweed, fled to a western desert. There she got worse, because she was sensitive to sage brush—which was everywhere. Later, she obtained perfect relief in places like Duluth and San Francisco. In my library I have a rare old book, published some 100 years ago, with a map of the mountains of New England, showing where a sufferer from hay fever could be free!

Often I have helped a person find the cause of his asthma by teaching him to do a little home detective work. Thus, I remember the woman who got asthma in certain houses, but not in others. It was then easy to find that the cause of her trouble was dust coming off of pressed board. Another patient of mine got all her trouble from primroses which she grew in her house. An eminent research man I know became sensitized to the fur of the rabbit with which he worked. A man who worked in a big chicken processing plant had the misfortune to get sensitized to chicken feathers!

HOME GARDEN

Apartment-Dwellers' Challenge

To live in one of the modern garden apartment blocks is scarcely the ambition of any keen home-gardener who has had a house and a garden of his own for years.

The deep satisfaction which comes from tending plants and living with them through stress of storm and leisure of relaxation makes us believe we couldn't be happy otherwise.

But some of the garden apartments offer a delightful challenge to the gardener who must forego the pleasures of a private garden.

Tiny enclosed patios with miniature beds of soil offer possibilities for using the choicest of plants with which the gardener has become acquainted through years of experience.

Since the total patio area is so limited, the one I saw was probably 15 feet by 10 feet, one would need only a single specimen plant in each small bed. Even so, judicious pruning will be practiced to control size.

There were beds on three sides of the patio, and tub plants on the fourth beneath and in front of the large living-room window.

The bed which had almost complete shade was occupied by a fine shrub of Pieris japonica variety Forestii, the Lily-of-the-Valley bush. In this secluded area it would no doubt be able to flaunt its burnished red new leaves in earliest spring without frost damage.

On a sunny side grew a dark purple Smoke-bush, Cotinus coggygria purpurea, surrounded by coral-colored petunias for summer. Replacing the petunias will be 50 stems of winter crocuses to delight the eyes looking out from the apartment window on inclement days.

Three tubs, which can be moved around at will to either catch the sunshine or avoid it as desired, contained a gay fuchsia, a palm (inhabiting the living room in winter), and the third was in the stage of being planted with a small collection of fragrant culinary herbs—rosemary, chives, thyme and winter savory.

Much thought had obviously been given to this selection. The restraint shown was admirable, for most of us would be inclined to crowd into so small a space all our favorite bits and pieces from which we couldn't bear to part.

The result would be chaos, instead of the peace and beauty which I was privileged to discover one day this summer.

Martin Discounts Charge in Pravda

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin Saturday said a statement made in the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda about Canada accepting nuclear arms was provocative. Earlier Pravda warned that the presence of nuclear warheads exposes Canada to danger of a Soviet "retaliatory blow" in the event of world war.

Mr. Martin said in an interview with Radio station CJSP: "Anyone knows that in the event of a nuclear war Canada would be involved whether or not she had an agreement with the U.S. to obtain nuclear warheads."

"I don't think the statement represents the feelings of the government of the Soviet Union and it is not to be taken as serious as its author would seem to have indicated."

Tax Education Program Urged By Chamber

By STEWART MacLEOD

EDMONTON (CP)—An intensive program of educating the public on taxation matters was proposed today by the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce which saw it as a means of eliminating political expediency from revenue-raising.

In a brief to the royal commission on taxation, the 1,800-member chamber said it has always been politically unpopular with most Canadians to suggest lower corporation taxes, exemptions of dividends from personal income, or a lower rate of tax for individuals in the extremely high income brackets.

The opposition to such suggestions, said the chamber's brief, "appears to be largely due to ignorance... of the influence that taxation bears on the economy of Canada as a whole."

The Canadian tax structure has become a "patch-work quilt" through the tug-of-war between tax collectors and taxpayers, the brief said, and it is necessary to rebuild it out in the open where taxpayers can see and understand exactly what is happening.

This would include an end to traditional budget secrecy. Proposed tax changes should be made public "well in advance of introduction to Parliament" and then sent to a committee of the House of Commons for detailed examination prior to enactment.

SHOULD KNOW PRICE

It is "extremely important" that all taxpayers be made aware of exactly what they are paying the government, said the chamber, in the first brief presented to the commission during its two-day Edmonton hearings.

There are many who believe that corporation taxes, rather than falling on the giants of industry, are actually passed down along the price line to consumers, said the brief. If this is true, it then becomes a regressive sales tax without any exemptions for such necessities as food. And in this case, added the submission, it would be better to reduce greatly the tax rate and make up lost revenue with a direct sales tax.

Opening Delayed On Union Centre

Opening of Victoria's new Union Centre scheduled for Labor Day has been postponed three weeks partly through a shortage of sub-tradesmen.

Opening ceremonies and inspection of the modern facilities will be held Sept. 21, after union offices have been moved in, said E. T. Staley, chairman of the Victoria Building Co-Operative Union committee charged with construction of the $165,000 centre.

Dockers to Sign Automation Pact

VANCOUVER (CP) — West coast longshoremen have voted 70.9 per cent in favor of accepting a settlement ending their dispute with the shipping companies.

Their decision to accept a key proposal on waterfront automation climaxes 16 months of negotiations. A strike had been called for June 28, but was postponed pending the talks that have since brought the agreement.

The B.C. Shipping Federation now is pledged to retrain personnel replaced by machines on the docks.

The settlement also includes a wage increase of 44 cents an hour spread over three years and a special bonus to longshoremen retiring between the age of 62 and 65.

Basic wage averages $2.94 an hour.

It had been estimated that a strike by the 2,400 members of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) would cost the province's economy $2,750,000 a day.

A strike would have stopped work at Vancouver, New Westminster, Port Alberni, Chemainus and Victoria, and idled 1,600 workers on top of the union members directly involved.

EDMONTON (CP) — An Ottawa economist predicted today that Canada will have a planned economy in about 10 years.

Professor Gerald Clarke, acting dean of the department of economics at the University of Ottawa, made the prediction during the 11th annual National Catholic Social Life Conference which opened here Friday night.

He said Canada has been moving towards a planned economy — which he defined as a continuing production on a per capita basis — since the 1930s. It promised a higher standard of living and allows for more desirable utilization of one's time.

Economic planning involved the setting of over-all targets and in Canada, must come about by democratic means. Representatives of all aspects of the economy must map out the program, he said.

Professor Clarke also said there was a need for increased socialization in several segments of the economy. Some of these were farming, organization of consumers, and organization of small business.

'Planned System' Due in Ten Years'

Across the world, the farming industry was in trouble, he said. In Canada the problem was over-production since markets were not available, neither domestic or foreign.

Some of the solutions proposed included development of rural industry which would employ some of the people now engaged in farming; combining farms of uneconomical size through long-term government-backed loans and a system of deficiency payments.

Professor Clarke advocated consumer-co-operation in a bid to acquire goods and services that otherwise would not be available.

Saudi Arabia Buys, Frees 1,682 Slaves

BEIRUT (AP) — All slaves in the central region of Saudi Arabia have been purchased by the government and given their freedom, the newspaper Orient reports.

Quoting a Saudi government bulletin, Orient said 1,682 privately-owned slaves in the central region were involved in the purchase. Saudi Arabia outlawed slavery last year.

A statement in the bulletin by Prince Salman ben Abdel Aziz, governor of the Ryad region and brother of King Saud, says the slaves were valued at 27,358,900 rials, or more than $5,000,000, Orient reports.

Orient says a Saudi information ministry bulletin gave the average price of a slave in the central region of the country as 16,265 rials, or about $3,000.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The gossip zipped through the East Hampton society set that Dina Merrill had a marriage proposal from Cliff Robertson who played JFK in "PT-109" and had given him what Sam Goldwyn used to call "a definite maybe." I phoned Dina at exactly the wrong time. She had just opened at the local John Drew theatre (with Ray Middleton) in "Right Near Murder"—and the cast had come over to her pad for a first night party. Nevertheless, she laughed, and said, "As to me marrying anybody—I am married, my friend!" (Her separation from Stanley Rumbaugh is the one-year trial type). "What I want to do is get back together with the husband I already have."

Buddy Hackett kept claiming at the Robert Goulet-Carol Lawrence wedding reception (where Carol wore white) that he didn't like elephants. He HATED them, he said. "Why?" he added, "do elephants lie on their backs with their feet in the air? To trip birds..." Elephants are so large, they're very seldom lost. (As Jane said to the elephant when he didn't brush his teeth, "Tusk! Tusk!")

In Harlem, Nipsy Russell tells me, they don't call girls "chicks" now—but "foxes"—cause what's trickier, slicker and more cunning than a fox?

Audrey Hepburn's voice coach, Susan Seton, predicts Audrey'll sing the whole "My Fair Lady" song list—without any dubbing—due to strenuous study in recent weeks. The new Wilson gal is beautiful Sharon Yonda of Holtsville, N.Y., a model who came close to winning the Castronaut contest.

Dear Ford Frick: So how about this Upside Down World Series—N.Y. Mets vs. the Wash'n Senators for the Cellar Championship? Everybody loves Jimmy Dean's kooky idea, but you have to approve. A TV film wants the rights to the "Cellar Series." After Nixon or Floyd Patterson throws out the first wild pitch, and the press elects the Most Worthless Player, the athletes would banquet at "the Losers' Cafe" and go barnstorming—some cute place like Cuba. You'd better approve, Boss Frick. Or we'll get our own commissioner—"Happy" Chandler!

My BW spotted Warren Beatty and ex-Miss America Sharon Ritchie at the premiere of "The Leopard," and told him he had brains. "Sash," he said, "you want to ruin me in pictures altogether?" Wintrop Rockefeller's flying to Paris to deliver his son Winnie to mama Bobo there, and flying right back. George Schrafft took in Birdland before going to Florida to take helicopter flying lessons.

DINA MERRILL
... she laughed

Tania Verstak, the former Miss Australia who turned in her title as "Miss International Beauty" at Long Beach, Calif., Friday, served a whole year without once posing in a bikini or "snappy sweater." And got married besides. It can be done! Liberace, here for "Talent Scouts," got up and worked with Kay Stevens at the Copa. Kay was so fast twirling about that Liberace said, "I've just had a stinger—please slow down." (They got a standing ovation on a Monday night).

Old-time singing great Jeanette MacDonald and husband Gene Raymond saw "She Loves Me," dined afterward with new singing idol, Jack Cassidy, from the show. Eva Gabor's mother drove up in a salmon-colored chauffeur-driven caddy to watch her daughter emote in "Shot in the Dark" in Westport Playhouse.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Frustration is when you have ulcers but still aren't a success." (Roger Devlin).

REMEMBERED QUOTES: "Work—another four-letter word." (Ray Haws).

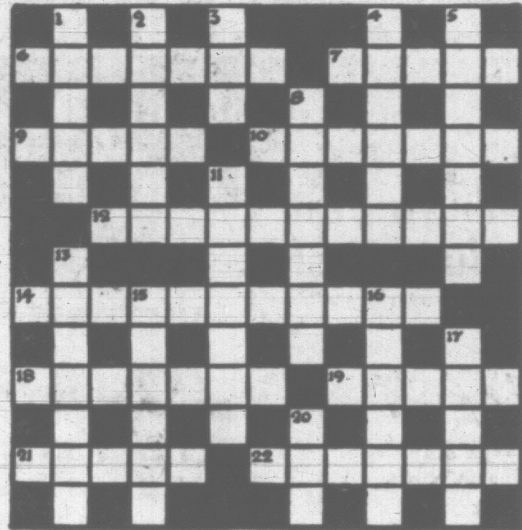

EARL'S PEARLS: The housewife insisted to her husband, said Gene Brown, "I'm not overdrawn—you're under-deposited."

Comedian Lenny Kent said in the Living Room's hot show (with singer Susan Smith and Bobby Colt) that the height of confidence would be Richard Burton's marrying Liz and building a home with a guest room... That's east, brother.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Edward Montagnino, 13, Stratford, Conn., for his question:

How are the houses of Venice built on the water?

The Italian city of Venice seems to rise up from the floor of the sea. Its streets are canals, and its taxicabs are graceful boat called gondolas. Hand-some bridges span the canals, and exquisite buildings reflect in the water. The city, hundreds of years old, seems to float on the water, and you wonder what keeps its sturdy palaces from sinking.

The story of Venice began some 1500 years ago when barbarian vandals poured down into Italy from northern Europe. Towns were pillaged and produce was plundered. In most places, the city and country people alike were at the mercy of the invaders. There were, however, some who remembered a place to retreat, a secret place that might be safe.

They fled northward along the shores of the Adriatic Sea. This body of blue water is an arm of the Mediterranean which separates the eastern coast of Italy from Yugoslavia. The river Po and the river Piave empty into the northern arch of the Adriatic creating sea-washed sand bars and muddy islands. These low, flat islands became a refuge from the barbarian invaders.

The people drove wooden pilings into the muddy sands and topped them with platforms to support their rickety houses. It was a life of hardship, but as time went on the island dwellers learned to improve their conditions. In the year 452 A.D. they established themselves as a city. The buildings became stronger, and the waterways became canals to connect one populated island with the next.

The city of Venice is traversed by 170 canals which serve as its streets and avenues. The canals are spanned by almost 400 graceful bridges. You can walk across the bridges and along the narrow paths that border the buildings, but you still cannot drive a car or an army of tanks down the watery streets of Venice.

churches. Museums and libraries reflected their graceful walls in the canals, and all this architecture was constructed on 120 or so soft, muddy islands. It was built, as were the first houses of Venice, on pilings driven deep into the mud.

CUSSING PART OF JOB

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Swearing and "rough language" is permissible in construction work, the Employment Commission has ruled.

Refusing jobless benefits to a worker who quit because his foreman swore, the commission declared:

"It is known that in construction work some rough language is used and some drinking is done from time to time. It is rough, hot work and demands a type of person who is sometimes not too careful as far as language is concerned."

S. Africa Trade Cut

JAKARTA (Reuters)—Indonesia has severed trade ties with South Africa and closed its ports to South African vessels as a protest against apartheid (racial apartness), the foreign ministry announced Monday.

Indonesia's export trade with South Africa in tea, spices and oil has dropped off sharply in recent years and officials said it's almost nil at present.

the Canadian National Exhibition's sideshow alley.

For the first time, the annual exhibition will be without strippers, bubble-dancers and other gyrators of the anatomy, formerly a familiar midway sight.

Says midway impresario Patty Conklin: "It's a good thing the girls shows have gone... they were a lot of trouble."

"I'm trying to prove you can do good business without the girls."

A GATHERING OF EAGLES

Rock Hudson Royal Theatre

Here is a study in personalities involving U.S. Air Force types and a pretty service wife from England.

Col. Rock Hudson is so preoccupied with air force efficiency in relation to the cold war that the pretty service wife (Mary Peach) gets a hankering for the less strangled atmosphere of England's green and pleasant land.

Col. Rod Taylor contributes to the domestic cold war by taking care of Mrs. Hudson while Col. Hudson takes care of his air force.

The little red phone in the colonel's residence is so busy that matrimonial intimacies are constantly interrupted, and Mrs. Hudson gets the odd notion she is playing second fiddle to the trumpet calls of U.S. Strategic Air Command.

To make matters worse, Col. Hudson decides Col. Rod Taylor is most damnably inefficient on the base and takes steps to have him transferred.

By modern movie standards,

GAVE HIS NAME

Atlantic City's boardwalk got its name from "Boardman's walk" after Alexander Boardman and Jacob Keim designed it.

the story is pretty lightweight, but the acting is good and air force fans will enjoy the terse aeronautic lingo exchanged by grim-faced men wearing head-phones and granite-jawed strategists pointing stern forefingers at operational wall maps.

Strategic Air Command shares the honors with outsize war planes in creating a fair amount of suspense and the overall dramatic effect is heightened by magnificent camera work. But the action drags in places and could have been improved with a little scissor-work.

For instance, when a man enters an elevator, I fail to see why he should be photographed going down in it, unless the descent has something to contribute to the story.

Otherwise, this is a commendable effort to show that personal feelings do sometimes interfere with the stern calls of duty, even when the highly efficient Strategic Air Command is involved.

The win means that Garden City Horsemen's Club will sponsor the inter-club show next year.

Q. Would you please tell me where I can get in touch with Casey Stengel? R.B.J.

A. Write to Casey Stengel, manager, New York Mets, Polo Grounds, New York, N.Y.

Q. Will you please give a list of the positions held by Prime Minister Pearson previous to his becoming prime minister? M.O.

A. Mr. Pearson was appointed secretary of state for external affairs and member of the Privy Council, 1948; elected chairman of NATO Council, 1952; elected president, seventh session, General Assembly of the U.N., 1953-54; became leader of the Liberal party and of the Opposition, Jan., 1955.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve controversies or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. There should be submitted to a dealer.

It is expected to wind up in the spring of 1964 and produce recommendations for federal and provincial legislation in public housing field.

City parking garage revenues are continuing to climb but still have not reached the break-even point.

City comptroller-treasurer James Bramley today said last month's revenue totalled $4,623 compared with $3,283 in June.

The July increase reflected two weeks' operation of the second garage at Langley and Yates in addition to the full month's operation of the View Street garage.

The "take" has risen steadily from the $1,296 figure in January when the View Street facility opened for business.

Home Away From Home For Barkers

Keith Barker's parents have been supplied with a place to stay any time they want to visit him.

The Victoria Noon Optimists Club has renovated and furnished a suite in their hall for the Barkers' use.

Bill and Nancy Barker come down to visit nine-year-old Keith every weekend from their Campbell River home. But financial difficulties had begun to make it almost impossible for them to see their son, who is in isolation in St. Joseph's Hospital with a badly burned back.

He has been there since he was injured by exploding gasoline March 2, and will be having skin grafts for about another two months.

Optimists have provided the Barkers with a two-bedroom suite that has kitchen and bathroom facilities.

They have also arranged to supply them with groceries while they stay in the suite.

STUDIES WASHINGTON STATE MOVE

Gagliardi Revving Up for 70 MPH Freeways

B.C. will eventually accelerate to 70 mph on all freeways, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi predicted today.

He said he has ordered a study of the boost to 70 which went into effect today on some neighboring Washington State Freeways.

Mr. Gagliardi said the freeway from Vancouver to the U.S. border which has a 65 limit on some stretches was built "with the idea of going to 70."

"Maybe all the freeways from Vancouver to Cheam of four lanes will at the proper time go to 70," he added.

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Victoria is ruining its atmosphere with high-rise apartments and functional-type buildings which have no artistic or historical appeal, says a leading Hollywood movie-set designer.

"I love Victoria," said Canadian-born Edward G. Boyle, set designer for the Mirisch Company, "and it hurts me to see this fine old garden city being turned into just another American tourist resort."

"I come here for a rest every year, but if this modernistic trend continues, I might just as well stay in the United States."

AWARD WINNER

Mr. Boyle, who won an Academy Award for his background designs in "Gone With The Wind," said he appreciated the fact that high-rise apartments are wanted by elderly residents who want to give up the care of large homes.

"But why put up inverted shoe boxes with bare windows that look just like the high-rises in any other American city? Why not give them a distinctive appeal, with quaint old-world entrances and decorative window designs?"

"They can still be functional inside—and that goes for your office buildings. Make them attractive outside even if you follow modern trends inside. You can still have the extra window space and the extra floors."

Mr. Boyle said San Francisco is "fighting hard" to keep its historic charm and Victoria should do the same.

"In Los Angeles and Hollywood, people don't expect that kind of charm. They certainly expect it in San Francisco and Victoria."

SISTER HERE

A dapper, quick-eyed man, with eloquent hands, Mr. Boyle is staying at the Empress Hotel between visits to his sisters Mrs. J. Moxan and Miss Mary Boyle, who live at 1015 Moss Street.

Born and raised at Cobden, Ont., he went to Hollywood in 1925 during the last phase of the old silent-movie era and lived through the painful adjustments that had to be made when the talkies came.

He was on the production side of movies for several years before specializing in the design of movie sets, and this work has taken him all over North America and Europe in search of authentic backgrounds.

He designed the sets for "The Apartment," starring Jack Lemmon and Shirley MacLaine; the new film "La Douce" which has a Parisian background; and has just completed work on a futuristic movie, "Seven Days in May," in which Frederic March plays the U.S. president of 1971.

ANTICIPATED

"My job here was to design the kind of interiors and furnishings we imagine will be used in eight years' time, and these are, of course, an anticipation of future trends based on the present.

"If we were making a feature film in Victoria, I certainly would avoid high-rises and box-like buildings and concentrate on the Empress, the old courthouse on Bastion Square and other famous landmarks which reflect the city's history."

On leaving Victoria later this week, Mr. Boyle will go to England to collect background material for a new film on the life of Sherlock Holmes, the story-book detective.

One other thing—he doesn't like the "horrible blue paint" used on Victoria lamp posts.

Murder Charge Laid Against Fisherman

Body, Weapon Still Hunted

A 22-year-old fisherman today was charged with capital murder even though the victim's body has not been found.

John Stanley Crocker, North Galiano, appeared in provincial magistrate's court here this morning and was remanded without plea until next Monday.

Defending him is Victoria lawyer Joseph McKenna.

He was arrested Saturday afternoon after a four-day RCMP investigation into the disappearance of Joseph George, 80, an Indian fisherman and long-time resident of North Galiano.

Neither the body nor the murder weapon has been found, and RCMP have been unable to discover a motive.

But police investigating the case are convinced that the body—probably dismembered—is lying somewhere in the deep waters of Portler Pass.

And the murder weapon, they feel, is probably with it.

Crocker, a half-breed, is distantly related to the missing man, says RCMP.

He is one of a large family of Crockers in the tiny fishing village.

George was a Kuper Island Indian who had worked at Chemainus for many years, as a longshoreman. He had lived at North Galiano for about 20 years.

Cabin Blood-Splattered

Last seen on Monday, he was reported missing to RCMP on Salt Spring Island on Tuesday.

Investigating officers found the walls and floor of his cabin splashed with blood, and began a search through the dense surrounding bush for his body.

Later in the week they began searching nearby waters, calling in RCN divers to help.

There are deep waters close to the shore of the northern part of the island, where the cliffs drop steeply into the sea.

Residents of the village—a string of unpainted shacks along the harbor—said Sunday that George had a reputation as a solitary, unfriendly man.

He lived alone during the summer in a small, unpainted cabin while his family was in the north fishing.

Like most of the others in North Galiano, the cabin is relatively secluded, facing Portler Pass.

The rough planking of its walls and floor are stained with splatters and patches of blood in an almost garish design.

There were rumors that he had a large sum of money in the shack, but most villages said he was poor.

Police investigation—for corpse, weapon and motive—is still going on.

YANKS ARE HERE

Dudes and Dolls Do-Si-Do Tonight

A teen-aged group of 25 square dancers arrived in Victoria Sunday from Southern California's San Fernando Valley, nearing the end of a two-week exhibition tour of Washington, Oregon and British Columbia.

They are accompanied by 38 adults in an 18-car caravan bearing the name "San Fernando Valley Dudes and Dolls." The caravan will split up Thursday in Vancouver at the tour's end.

This morning, representatives of the group presented a letter of friendship and goodwill to Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, representing Premier Bennett, from California Governor Edmund "Pat" Brown.

B.C. FLAG
Mr. Black presented the dancers with a B.C. flag for Governor Brown.

Later, a similar letter from Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty was presented to Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell at City Hall.

This afternoon, three squares exhibited precision dancing without a caller before local television cameras on a teenage dance show.

VETERANS

Some of the teen-agers have been dancing for seven years. The group has been together for five years and is on its third goodwill tour.

Tonight the dancers and parents will be guests of Vancouver Island square dancers at a hoedown at Esquimalt Junior High School, starting at 8:30.

Last scheduled exhibition by the Dudes and Dolls is at the dance at 10:15 p.m. They leave for Vancouver Tuesday.

More Information Needed on Firing

The civil service commission is seeking "additional information" before deciding if a dismissed Nanaimo ferry official should get his job back.

Jack Washer, fired as Nanaimo terminal manager because one of his toll-takers stole money, is making the appeal.

Commission member J. Everett Brown, the deputy minister of municipal affairs, said today that it may be some time before the case is decided.

He said he and deputy welfare minister E. R. Rickinson, who heard the appeal last week, have asked for more information.

Matteson-Dent Vows

Baskets of red and white gladioli and white carnations decorated the Salvation Army Harbor Light home on Saturday afternoon when Miss Carol Rosalie Dent and Joseph Wallace Matteson exchanged marriage vows.

Major H. George Wright officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Everett Dent, 756 Bay Street, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Jack Peters, Lower Nicola, B.C., and the late Percy Matteson.

A gown of white nylon over taffeta was worn by the bride. Her tulle veil misted from a white velvet coronet and she carried red and white carnations.

Maid of honor, Miss Joyce Engel, wore a gown in gold tones and carried a bouquet of red carnations.

The best man was Don Coleman. Ushers were Ron Poocha and Clayton Rooney.

At a reception following the ceremony, the bride's table was covered with an heirloom lace tablecloth made by her great-grandmother, and centred with a two-tier wedding cake. William Crabb proposed the toast.

Leaving on a honeymoon in Seattle and Kamloops the bride wore a rose tone suit with white accessories.

On their return the newlyweds will make their home at 140 Menzies Street.

Former Public Health Nurse Wed in Vancouver

A wedding of interest in provincial public health nursing circles took place recently in St. Anselm's Anglican Church at Vancouver when Canon T. D. Somerville united in marriage Patricia Colleen Cairney, former staff member of Saanich public health unit, and Frederick Gene Claggett.

The bride is the daughter of R. T. Cairney, Kenora, Ont., and Mrs. Gfroy Archambault, Vancouver. Groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Claggett of Summerland, B.C.

Gold and white wedding theme in the church was set with white candles, and gold and white chrysanthemums.

Dr. E. Webb played "Be Thou My Vision" during the singing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her white bridal gown featured a bell shaped skirt of pussy willow taffeta. The bodice of silk organza over heirloom Valenciennes lace matched a short full veil with lace appliques embroidered in seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of yellow tea roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Sheila Harris, and bridesmaid, Miss Isobel Plummer, wore silk illusion gowns of a golden yellow shade. They carried nosegays of white and yellow gladioli to match their flower head-dresses.

Brother of the groom, Capt. W. Claggett, Calgary, was best man. Ushers were John Harris and Al Anderson.

Fresh vegetables like lettuce, celery, cucumbers and radishes will stay crisp much longer if they are carried to the picnic ground in a polythene bag. Toss a few ice cubes into the bag just before leaving home and the salad greens will keep cool for hours.

A family reception for 60 guests was held in the Gold Room of the Hotel Georgia following the wedding ceremony.

Carnations

Corsage of pink carnations was presented to Mrs. Percy Tiller (nee Geraldine Moore) when Mrs. L. Beggs entertained at a bridal shower in her honor. Guests at the party held in the Beggs home on Helen Road were Mrs. R. Farugia, Mrs. M. Hilton, Mrs. E. Watling, Mrs. M. Osmars, Mrs. R. Tennent, Mrs. A. Starkey, Mrs. M. Sahlstrom, Mrs. J. Kershaw, Mrs. J. Cote, Mrs. M. Morgan, Mrs. E. Nixon, Mrs. B. Bedis and the Misses Veida Morley, Grace Meares, Sharon Tennent and Lois Morgan.

Honeymoon at Harrison Hot Springs was followed by a motor trip to Oregon. Couple will make their home in Vancouver.

Leaving on the trip, the bride wore a Mediterranean blue A-line dress topped by a three-quarter length coat of pale yellow. Her accessories were white and her corsage of blush pink roses. She wore the groom's gift, a hand-crafted silver bracelet from Italy.

PAIR 'FIGHT CITY HALL'
 WITH CAR, POLICE SAY

MONTREAL (CP) — Two men were charged today with smashing their car into the City Hall building at nearby Ville d'Auteuil as a protest against a tax rate they felt was too high. Michael Drysdale, 32, and Leopold Danie, 31, pleaded not guilty and were granted $950 bail each.

'WE'RE ALL OKAY', LEADER SHOUTS

Supply Pipe Reaches
 Trapped Coal Miners

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — Rescue workers lowered soup, medical supplies, head lamps and a requested cigar today to three coal miners trapped since Tuesday near the bottom of a 400-foot shaft.

"We're all okay," shouted David Fellin, 58, one of the trio, after a six-inch drill through the gangway where the men fled after the main shaft walls collapsed. Also in the mine were Henry Throne, 28, and Louis Bova, 52.

Contact was made just before midnight Sunday after they virtually had been given up for dead.

The next step is to bore a 28-inch hole to bring the men out.

Ralph Ditzler, district mine inspector, said it would take two or three days. It took 22 hours to drill the six-inch shaft.

Ditzler said he wanted to start the rescue digging, but had to hold up because the trapped men were too tired to direct the operation.

"I tried to get Fellin to tell us where to dig, advising him we could work while they slept. But he said: 'No, no, we've got to get some sleep, then you can start,'" said Ditzler.

BOVA SEPARATED

Fellin told Ditzler that he and Throne later were going to try and dig out Bova, who was separated from them about 25 yards by debris. Bova was hurt slightly, he said.

Fellin talked with his wife, Anna, and son, Joe.

After the first contact, a microphone was lowered.

"Dave, Dave," she shouted, "how are you?"

"Okay," he replied.

"Are you sure? Can you hear me? Are you sick or hurt?"

"I can hear you hollering all over... no I'm not sick or hurt."

The mine, of which Fellin is a co-owner, is at Shepton, an adjoining Schuylkill County about nine miles from Hazleton and some 80 miles northeast of Philadelphia.

DRILLED 331 FEET

After the six-inch hole broke through, John Buros, a friend of Fellin, shouted into the hole. It was drilled to a depth of 331 feet.

"Who are you?" came the reply from the mine. "We're all okay."

Buros leaped back from the hole and exclaimed: "They are alive! I hear them! They're alive!"

The dramatic contact with the men brought relief to a vigil that had lasted 134 hours and 25 minutes.

Gene Gibbons, co-owner of the coal mine with Fellin, lowered a microphone and an electric light to better pinpoint the men's position. The microphone failed to convey their voices but the men talked through the hole.

"Are you going to be able to reach the light?" asked Gibbons.

"We are blocked in a hole and can't get out," answered Fellin.

It was not immediately certain whether the other two men who were trapped, Henry Throne, 28, of Hazleton, and Louis Bova, 52, of Pattersonville, could talk. Several times Throne was asked to talk but there was no response.

THINK ONE HURT

A garbled message was understood as saying that one was injured, apparently not seriously.

Fellin later worked his way to the light and was heard over the transistor microphone.

15 Sets of 'Prints'
 Train Robbery Clue

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard's experts today studied 15 sets of fingerprints found at the farm hideout used by the great train robbery gang 10 days ago. They hoped the prints would identify more of the men who got away with £2,600,000 ($7,800,000).

The prints were found in the buildings at isolated Leather-slade Farm, Oakley, the gang's hideout 18 miles from where the Glasgow-London mail train was held up. Police hoped they would match up with prints on file in the yard's central criminal records office.

In the 11 days since the gang — estimated at about 20 men — stopped the mail train, three men and two women have been arrested and one-tenth of the total loot has been recovered.

Other possible clues included:

- 1. A monopoly set, a card game usually played with stage money but believed used by gang members played with their banknote loot while they waited in their hideout to make their getaway.
- 2. A house in a respectable district of West London where detectives found a group of 12 men began holding night meetings behind darkened windows last March.
- 3. Five men sought for questioning because they have been — Continued on Page 2

AFRICAN SPEAKS OUT FOR 'HONEST POLYGAMY'

TORONTO (CP) — An African bishop today questioned the Christian condemnation of polygamy.

Rt. Rev. S. O. Odutola of Ibadan, West Africa, mentioned the recent Profumo scandal and the high divorce rate in Western countries to about 2,000 delegates at the Anglican congress.

Then he said, of missionaries: "When these people have been telling us 'one man, one woman,' or what you call monogamy... well, you are not all that good."

"We have honest polygamy."

In the case of our teachers we have progressive polygamy." Bishop Odutola said the African practice of having three or even more wives is a lot more honest than the Western practice of "taking one wife, divorcing her, taking another and so on."

Bishop Odutola's remarks took other delegates somewhat aback.

Rt. Rev. A. M. Stockwood, bishop of Southwark, England, replied: "I do feel however that I don't see how you can have anything in the nature of a Christian home... I can't see how Our Lord would look upon polygamy as being at all proper."

Bishop Stockwood added that he disapproved of the practice of some evangelists who went into Africa and told converts they must stuff off all their wives but one.

"I can well see the necessity of achieving this in certain areas by stages and not all at once."

LONDON (Reuters) — A series of strategic week-long strikes today hit some 500 key British construction sites, including Prime Minister Macmillan's London residence at 10 Downing Street.

A National Federation of Building Trades spokesman said the stoppage at Downing Street was "total." Rebuilding began three years ago. But it has been plagued by labor troubles, security problems and changes of mind by the occupants, including Prime Minister Macmillan.

PRISON FAST

Force-Feeding
 For 23 Douks

VANCOUVER (CP) — A doctor's report that 23 fasting Sons of Freedom Doukhobors are in "dangerously weak" condition has prompted officials at Mountain Prison in Agassiz, 60 miles east of here, to order forced feeding.

The 23 are among 118 members of the sect who have refused prison food for the last 28 days. The Doukhobors have said they will fast until death to protest their imprisonment for acts of terrorism and conspiracy.

Warden Tom Hall said Sunday nine ounces of a nutritive liquid will be forced down their throats daily if the 23 maintain their refusal to eat. He made the disclosure following a Doukhobor meeting in downtown Victoria Square, the haunt of about 550 sect members who marched here Jan. 17 after burning their homes in the Kootenays.

The Doukhobors said Mr. Hall and Allen Macleod, federal commissioner of penitentiaries, attended the meeting to gain first hand information on a proposed Doukhobor march Tuesday from here to Agassiz.

Spokesman Florence (Big Fanny) Storgoff said Mayor Bill Rathie to clear city streets for the sect's exodus. She said old people and children will be driven to Agassiz, but all able-bodied men and women will walk.

There was no indication what the marchers intend to do if they reach the prison site.

Last year an attempt to "join" their brothers and sisters if Agassiz failed when federal authorities erected barbed wire entanglements at the prison approaches and the municipality passed emergency legislation barring their entry into the district.

The Doukhobors here have been living in cheap waterfront hotels or in east-end homes. They have been making rental payments with social assistance cheques.

 Canyon Crash

YALE, B.C. (CP) — Five persons were killed Sunday and two injured when two cars met head-on along the Trans-Canada Highway in the Fraser Canyon, 115 miles east of Vancouver.

Three died immediately; the fourth en route to hospital, and the fifth in hospital.

RCMP identified the dead as Mrs. Mandy Munroe, 41; Lloyd Elmer Williams, 26; Kenneth Sam, 18 and Lawrence Francis Bolin, all of Lytton, B.C., and Mrs. Katherine Maude Allan, 58, of Vancouver.

Mrs. Allan's husband was taken to hospital in Hope, B.C., suffering extreme shock. Also injured was Larry Phillips, 26, an occupant of the Lytton car. The Lytton car burst into flames but the fire was extinguished by a bus driver with a fire extinguisher.

Mrs. Allan said she was travelling to visit her mother-in-law in Hope, B.C., and was returning to Lytton. She said she was travelling alone.

At the same time he appealed to English-speaking Canadians to be "more conscious of the aspirations of French Canada."

"The day when we will be no more in a position to talk of Canadian unity in this country, Canada would have ceased to exist and then our two cultures will be in great danger," he told 300 editors attending the annual meeting of the French-Language Weekly Newspapers Association of Canada.

Departing from his prepared text, he went further: "Apart, we would lose our separate cultures."

The prime minister said the two main ethnic groups face the same problem in varying degrees: Struggling to keep their identities in the face of a steady encroachment from the United States — "all the stronger because it is friendly and in many ways has had good results for us."

He suggested that an independent Quebec could not resist for long the "pressures" from the friendly giant to the south.

Victims Hurlled
 Through Walls

WOODFIBRE, B.C. (CP) — Four boiler-plant engineers died Sunday when a boiler and furnace exploded at a pulp and paper mill here, spraying the men with a caustic, hot chemical known as "black liquor." Five other employees of the mill were burned by the chemical.

The explosion rocked the seven-story building that encased the boiler and furnace at Rayonier (Canada) Limited's large plant in this near-isolated community 20 miles north of Vancouver.

The nine men were hurled through gaping holes blown in the walls of the building.

One man was found unconscious but still alive lying in a pool of hot black liquor. Another was thrown 40 feet and smashed against a concrete wall.

Boots and clothing were scattered around the building amidst debris from the explosion and pools of black liquor.

WILL CLOSE PLANT

Cause of the explosion was not known. Officials said the plant, employing 350 men, would be closed indefinitely.

The dead were identified as Harcham Kler, 34; Barry McKay, 34; Lawrence St. Laurent and Jurgens Albert Muller, all of this area. Injured were William James, 19; Tony Zwierko, 41; James Fortier; Allen Dewey, 19, and John Hunter.

James, Zwierko and Fortier are in critical condition in hospital with severe burns and other injuries. Dewey is in fair condition and Humber in good condition.

Carl Malm, assistant plant chemist, said the men were covered with black liquor, a mixture of sodium hydroxide and sodium sulphide. He described this as a highly caustic fluid which is recovered in the boiler that exploded. It is a sticky, tar-like substance that burns flesh and hair on touch.

SKIN PEELED

"I tended some of the men," said Malm. "We cut their clothes off and their skin peeled like a grape."

Among the dead was his brother-in-law, St. Laurent.

"I saw Larry lying on the ground outside the building. I knew he was dead and I went to help the others."

W. W. Breitenbach, president of the company, said the plant had an excellent safety program "but sometimes these things just happen."

Kler and McKay were called into the building shortly before the explosion because the steam pressure had dropped from the normal 560 pounds a square inch to about 460 pounds.

400 Chinese
 Gunned Down

HONG KONG (AP) — More than 400 rioting Chinese were machine-gunned to death by Communist troops recently in Chao Yang, Kwangtung province, press reports said here today.

The reports, quoting recent arrivals from the South China province, said 3,000 members of the Peace Farm Labor Camp took part in the riot led by Communist cadres.

About 1,000 laborers fled to the hills after the incident, the reports said.

The reports said the riot started when Communist authorities attempted to collect large quantities of agricultural products produced by camp prisoners.

FEARS PRECEDENT

Goldwater later said in a Senate speech that the treaty, by failing to provide for on-site inspections, may be setting a pattern for future international agreements without such safeguards.

He said there was no protection in tests inside China.

"Talk of splits between the Chinese and the Soviets are no more meaningful in this respect than talk of splits between ourselves and the French," he said. "We still know whose friends are whole and what the possibilities for violation actually are."

'From Canadian Frying Pan

MURRAY BAY, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Quebec residents that they would soon be overwhelmed by an "invasion" of American culture and capital if they broke away from Canada.

In his most direct reply to date to Quebec's separatist leaders, he argued Saturday that French-Canadians can develop their political and economic influence only within a true partnership in Confederation.

The same would hold true for the nine English-speaking provinces in the event of a break in Confederation.

He stressed, however, that he is confident Canadian unity will be strengthened in the future, once the current "difficult period" was overcome.

His government was moving on several fronts to ensure a "true and equal partnership" between the two founding cultural groups.

Speaking alternately in French and English, he mentioned the royal commission on biculturalism and bilingualism. The government planned to develop a fully bilingual civil service, set up a permanent agency to handle federal-provincial relations and hold federal-provincial conferences more often.

"... won't stop Chinese"

LeMay Against Test Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay testified today that if the limited nuclear test-ban treaty were still in the proposal stage "I think I would recommend against it."

LeMay, U.S. Air Force chief of staff, had joined the heads of the army, navy and marines in recommending senate ratification of the pact but he differed with them on whether he would support the agreement if it had not already been signed by the United States, Russia and Britain.

Senator Strom Thurmond, Dem. S.C., asked LeMay at Senate hearings whether, if he had considered the provisions of the treaty before it was signed, he would have recommended its approval.

LeMay said he would have to qualify his answer by saying he would have to spend some time on the question before being sure, but he testified: "I think if it were in a proposal stage—I think I would recommend against it."

Senator Barry Goldwater, Rep. Ariz., a treaty critic, asked LeMay then if he thought the terms of the treaty would stop the spread of nuclear weapons to other countries.

LeMay reported that "I don't think it would stop the Red Chinese" or the French from going ahead, although it might stop some countries not now experimenting in the field.

FEARS PRECEDENT

Goldwater later said in a Senate speech that the treaty, by failing to provide for on-site inspections, may be setting a pattern for future international agreements without such safeguards.

He said there was no protection in tests inside China.

Supply Pipe
Gets to Miners

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Rescue workers lowered soup, medical supplies, head lamps and a requested cigar today to three coal miners trapped since Tuesday near the bottom of a 400-foot shaft.

"We're all okay," shouted David Fellin, 58, one of the trio, after a six-inch drill reached the gangway where the men fled after the main shaft walls collapsed. Also in the mine were Henry Throner, 28, and Louis Bova, 52.

Contact was made just before midnight Sunday after they virtually had been given up for dead.

The next step is to bore a 28-inch hole to bring the men out.

Ralph Ditzler, district mine inspector, said it would take two or three days. It took 22 hours to drill the six-inch shaft.

Ditzler said he wanted to start the rescue digging, but had to hold up because the trapped men were too tired to direct the operation.

"I tried to get Fellin to tell us where to dig, advising him we could work while they slept. But he said: 'No, no, we've got to get some sleep, then you can start,'" said Ditzler.

BOVA SEPARATED

Fellin told Ditzler that he and Throner later were going to try and dig out Bova, who was separated from them about 25 yards by debris. Bova was hurt slightly, he said.

Fellin talked with his wife, Anna, and son, Joe.

After the first contact, a microphone was lowered.

"Dave, Dave," she shouted, "how are you?"

"Okay," he replied. "Are you sure? Can you hear me? Are you sick or hurt?" "I can hear you hollering all over... no I'm not sick or hurt."

The mine, of which Fellin is a co-owner, is at Shepton, an adjoining Schuylkill County about nine miles from Hazleton and some 80 miles northeast of Philadelphia.

DRILLED 331 FEET

After the six-inch hole broke through, John Biros, a friend of Fellin, shouted into the hole. It was drilled to a depth of 331 feet.

"Who are you?" came the reply from the mine. "We're all okay."

Biros leaped back from the hole and exclaimed: "They are alive! I hear them! They're alive."

The dramatic contact with the men brought relief to a vigil that had lasted 134 hours and 25 minutes.

Gene Gibbons, co-owner of the coal mine with Fellin, lowered a microphone and an electric light to better pinpoint the men's position. The microphone failed to convey their voices but the men talked through the hole.

"Are you going to be able to reach the light?" asked Gibbons.

"We are blocked in a hole and can't get out," answered Fellin.

THINK ONE HURT

It was not immediately certain whether the other two men who were trapped, Henry Throner, 28, of Hazleton, and Louis Bova, 52, of Pattersonville, could talk. Several times Throner was asked to talk but there was no response.

A garbled message was understood as saying that one was injured, apparently not seriously.

Fellin later worked his way to the light and was heard over the transister microphone.

PREMIER'S ORDER

Paris Trips For Congo Brass 'Investment' In Tourism

Mayor R. B. Wilson today appealed to businessmen to donate money as an investment in the tourist business which this year is expected to bring $60,000,000 to Victoria.

He warned this annual income, which spreads throughout all segments of the community, will decline unless the present tourist advertising campaign can be increased to keep pace with growing competition.

The mayor's appeal was made as letters were sent to all business firms seeking financial support for the Victoria Visitors' Bureau and the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau.

"It is conservatively estimated that this year visitors will bring to Victoria an estimated $60,000,000 of new money," the mayor said.

"These new dollars flow through our entire business community, benefiting banks, doctors, lawyers, real estate firms, retail establishments, service stations, restaurants, motels, hotels and others."

"Without this income, taxes would be higher. So the visitor or tourist business benefits every section of our community."

Mayor Wilson pointed out city council has for years given a $50,000 grant to the visitors bureau but more contributions from the business community are needed now "in view of the steadily increasing competition for the tourist dollar by our surrounding cities on both the mainland of B.C. and in the United States."

Two Fishermen Rescued Despite Confusing SOS

TOFINO — Two fishermen escaped drowning Saturday night even though they radioed a misleading SOS as their 38-foot troller sank beneath them.

The Vancouver vessel Leo S., believed to have been owned by Leo Simons, sank in about 35 fathoms near Lennard Island, 10-12 miles offshore.

The skipper and an unidentified crewman were taken off by a skiff from the American fishing vessel Buddy, and later transferred to the Mainland fish boat Challenger II.

"They should have drowned," Tofino lifeboat cox'n Fred Haglin told the Times. "It was lucky he had the rest of the fishing fleet around him, because he gave me a faulty position in the first place."

"I was talking to him while he was sinking. He said he was taking water in about 50 fathoms off Bear Island, and that's nowhere near Lennard Island."

"I confirmed his position with other fishing boats," said Cox'n Haglin, who put out the lifeboat.

But its services were not required by the time it reached the area.

There was no reason given for the disaster and no formal report made to the lifeboat station.

The cox'n said he had the old Leo S. under tow about two years ago.

Family Homeless

COWICHAN STATION — A family of 10 is living in the open and looking for a house to rent after fire destroyed their six-room home Thursday evening.

The blaze levelled the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shaw, Riverside Road, six miles south of Duncan.

It was the house in which Mr. Shaw was born, and has raised his own eight children aged four months to 14 years. He is a laid-off logger.

The family was living in its summer shelter 500 yards away on the Koksilah River, just having dinner when a neighbor came and told them their house was ablaze.

The shelter, open on three sides, is their only home until they are able to furnish a rented house in the district.

Some bedding and blankets have been provided by the Cowichan branch of the Red Cross and neighbors have given the Shaws some utensils.

The loss was covered partly by insurance.

Members of the family are Marion, 14; Georgina, 13; Clay, 12; Jimmy, nine; Shawn, seven; Bonnie-Ann, five; Jessie, three, and John, the baby. The children's pets, a pair of golden labradors and three puppies, also survive.

Norman Salisbury and Emanuel Selzer left their car unguarded for only a few minutes while they walked 100 yards to get herring trip. They had planned to fish for tyee salmon in Alberni Inlet.

Fish Gear Stolen

PORT ALBERNI — Fishing rods, reels and tackle belonging to two visiting Victorians were stolen from their car Saturday as the fishermen went to buy bait.

Norman Salisbury and Emanuel Selzer left their car unguarded for only a few minutes while they walked 100 yards to get herring trip. They had planned to fish for tyee salmon in Alberni Inlet.

The mine has been reactivated recently, after being closed for some years because of a poor coal market. The reopening came about when there was an increasing demand for deep-mine anthracite coal.

Rescuers were stopped daily in their efforts to reach the men by recurring rockfalls and the flow of deadly gases. Delays caused by shoring and the need for additional ventilation prolonged the work.

Three City Apprentices To Match Skills at PNE
Three Victoria boys are among 16 carpentry apprentices chosen to take part in the first annual apprenticeship contest sponsored by union and management at Pacific National Exhibition.
For eight hours a day between Wednesday and Aug. 29, skilled carpentry and cabinetmaker apprentices will match skills.
"This is not a contest of speed, but rather a demonstration of craftsmanship and know-how in a highly skilled trade," said secretary Arthur Leam.

Quebec Family Gets Greeting From Pope
NEUVILLE, Que. (CP)—Late this year the mailman will carry a personal New Year's greeting from Paul VI, the pope, to the Dubuc family of Quebec.
The pope was Msgr. Montini, a top Vatican executive, when he spent Aug. 20, 1951, at the summer cottage of Archbishop Maurice Roy of Quebec.
Across the road was the Dubuc house, a modest but neat home with a well-kept lawn and a busy kitchen. The Dubucs have 12 children.
The archbishop and his Roman guest dropped in for breakfast, not catching Mrs. Dubuc unaware. Msgr. Roy often drops by, sometimes with visitors.
She was impressed by this visitor. He had a penetrating glance but an easy manner, she recalls, and he spoke French well.
"He was a likeable man and we were at ease with him," she said in an interview following his recent election as pope.
Msgr. Montini stayed only about 30 minutes, but warm feelings were established. He has sent the family a New Year's greeting each year since they are treasured by Mrs. Dubuc.
When he was chosen Cardinal of Milan in 1955, he sent a letter of warm thanks to the Dubucs for the prayers they had said on his behalf.
